Your continued support fuels our journey of compassion and empowerment. Thank you for being the driving force behind our mission!

Hi, my name is Aji Narayanan, and I'm from Venmani in Idukki district. I was in the furniture business and was skilled in carpentry work. During those days, I remember sculpting beautiful designs in wood using just hand tools and without the help of machinery. It was on 30th March 1995 the fateful incident happened. My friend, who was also a carpenter, asked if I could cover for him as he had some urgent commitments. He was working on cutting large wooden logs into small pieces. I asked my father to take care of the furniture business for some time and went to help my friend. After a while, the unfortunate incident occurred. The large wooden log I was working on fell on me and crushed me under its weight. Luckily, the people working with me sustained only minor injuries, but I ended up with a broken backbone. I underwent surgery at Kottayam Medical College where two metal rods were placed on my spinal cord. Following the operation, I constantly struggled with my ailing health, and it worsened in 2001. I was admitted to a private hospital in Thodupuzha as my wounds were not healing and the infection was spreading. In July 2001, my right leg had to be amputated completely. I also tried Ayurvedic treatment in between. In 2009, I shifted to Mangalore, where my health troubled me again and I was admitted to another private hospital there.

DOCTOR'S DAY PROGRAMME

Arike Palliative Home Care celebrated Doctor's Day as a tribute to our dedicated medical team. The event, led by the students of Navanirman Public School, saw participation from all doctors and staff of Arike.

SUPPORT TO WIDOW

A Nutritional kit was presented to enhance the well-being of a widow, accompanied by an assurance of continued support as needed. Similarly comfort devices were provided to few patients in need.

I would like to do some kind of art and crafts activities with wood as much as I can. Here are some works I have done.

I underwent 4 skin graft procedures and also a procedure to drain urine from my back through a tube, which had to be done every 30 minutes. Currently, my mother and I are staying in Maradu 9th Ward with my sister and her husband at their rented house. I am completely bedridden and still suffering from 5 to 6 unhealed wounds. The Arike Palliative home care staff help dress these wounds. They are very compassionate people and their approach is really appreciative.

SOCIO-ECONOMIC SUPPORT

Arike, in collaboration with Key Value Solutions, facilitated financial aid of One Lakh Rupees to a bedridden patient and their family, who have been facing financial hardships since the patient suffered a spinal cord injury.

As a part of the Students initiative in the palliative care (SIP), the students from CKCHS visited a veteran of our society Mrs. Philomina, who is 105 years old. They were accompanied by their teacher Shijy and palliative care volunteer A N Sajeewan. This was the inaugural visit of the children, with a vision to make our future generation understand the importance of community involvement in palliative care. They honoured Mrs. Philomina with a traditional 'Ponnada' and also shared quality time with her. The children shared that they were happy with their first palliative experience and said that they were excited for the next one.

KOODE

Koode is our volunteer initiative committed to bringing solace to palliative care patients during their toughest moments. We firmly believe that each individual can make a meaningful difference in easing the challenges faced by those contending with chronic illnesses. Regardless of age, Koode extends a warm invitation to volunteers, encompassing people from all walks of society - students, professionals, homemakers, retirees - to contribute their unique abilities to provide relief and support to bedridden patients within their localities. Whether through offering technical expertise or emotional support and companionship, organizing social support events, your involvement can be transformative. Join us in spreading awareness about the significance of palliative care and offering aid where it's needed. Connect through the QR Code or give us a call.
