Paraplegia and Palliative Care:

Compassionate Support

In our journey towards compassionate care, it's essential to understand conditions like paraplegia and the pivotal role palliative care plays in providing support and comfort to those affected. Paraplegia is a condition characterised by impairment or loss of motor and sensory function in the lower half of the body, typically resulting from spinal cord injuries. Individuals living with paraplegia often face significant challenges in mobility, daily activities, and overall quality of life.

How Palliative Care Can Help?

Palliative care offers holistic support to individuals with paraplegia, focusing on enhancing their quality of life, managing symptoms, and addressing psychosocial needs. Palliative care teams work closely with patients, families, and healthcare providers to develop personalised care plans that prioritise comfort, dignity, and emotional well-being. Many individuals with paraplegia require long-term care and rehabilitation to improve mobility, regain independence, and reintegrate into society.

Arike's Neomotion Wheelchair Support

In April of last year, Arike, in partnership with Bajaj and Round Table India, provided essential support to 80 paraplegic patients by distributing Neomotion wheelchairs. These innovative wheelchairs were equipped with motorised add-ons, enabling independent outdoor mobility for individuals facing paraplegia. This collaborative initiative aimed to enhance mobility and significantly improve the quality of life for those affected with paraplegia.

"I spent six years in a closed room.....i had to depend upon someone to go out, but now.... After a year with the NeoMotion wheelchair, it has changed everything..... I can detach the motor at home and attach it for outdoor use. It's helped me break free from isolation and regain my independence" says one of our beneficiaries.
It has given me the freedom to explore and participate in activities I once thought were out of reach. I'm grateful to Arike and its sponsors for this great support" Says another beneficiary.

Supporting Economic Rehabilitation programmes

Economic rehabilitation programmes play a crucial role in helping individuals with paraplegia regain financial independence and stability. By promoting small livelihood activities and entrepreneurship opportunities, the aim is to empower individuals to become self-reliant and financially secure.

At Arike, we extend support to individuals through various means, including the provision of wheelchairs and financial assistance, among others. Our initiative extends beyond mere aid; we aim to venture into economic rehabilitation programmes as well. By partnering with individuals and organisations who share similar interests, we aim to provide training and livelihood support, thereby empowering individuals to lead fulfilling lives.

Public Donations and Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) Support

These initiatives were made possible through the generous support of our corporate partners, as well as public donations and individual acts of kindness. Their contributions, both through CSR initiatives and personal generosity, have helped us make a meaningful difference in the lives of individuals with paraplegia and other disabilities.

Empowering Lives through Volunteer Support

In addition to medical and rehabilitation efforts, individuals with paraplegia benefit greatly from social support and companionship. Koode volunteer initiatives offer a platform for volunteers to engage in meaningful activities and provide companionship to those in need, further enhancing their rehabilitation journey. Together, let's continue our journey of compassion and empowerment, making a positive impact in the lives of individuals living with paraplegia and other disabilities.

ACTIVITIES

Koode Awareness Initiatives

The Arike Palliative Care team participated in the SEAR programme organised by the ASTA- Alumni Association of St. Teresa's College on 3rd February. Through a dedicated stall disseminating information about Koode volunteer initiatives, the team actively engaged attendees, fostering discussions about community involvement in palliative care. This initiative underscored the significance of volunteerism in Arike Palliative Care's mission, encouraging individuals to contribute to the cause. This collaborative effort emphasised the importance of volunteerism and community support in Arike Palliative Care's mission.

On February 4th, the Ernakulam District Residents Associations' Apex Council (EDRAAC) organised an event at Chengampuzha Park to honour renowned oncologist Dr. Gangadaran. Arike team members, Mr. Rony John Madathil and Ms. Seena Thomas, conducted an awareness session on Koode volunteer initiatives, showcasing opportunities for compassionate volunteering. Alongside, a stall was set up to share information. The Koode volunteer initiatives stall by Arike garnered immense popularity, emphasizing community support through volunteering.

Livelihood Support

On February 14th, the Inner Wheel Club generously distributed a sewing machine to a beneficiary of Arike. This act of kindness not only provided essential livelihood support but also paved the way for sustainable empowerment. With the acquisition of a sewing machine, the beneficiary gains not just a tool but a means to secure their livelihood, fostering independence and self-reliance.

Volunteers' Course in Palliative Care Batch III

On February 15th, Arike Palliative Care welcomed the third batch of participants to its Volunteers' Course in Palliative Care (VCPC). This ongoing initiative aims to equip community members with the necessary skills and knowledge to support individuals requiring palliative care. With a total of 18 participants, the increasing number reflects the growing interest in this crucial area of healthcare.

Throughout the course, participants received comprehensive training, combining theoretical sessions with practical experiences including home visits. This approach allows volunteers to gain a deep understanding of palliative care needs and develop hands-on skills in addressing the diverse needs of patients and their families.

Support Our Mission

Over the past four years, Arike Palliative Home Care have been diligently providing home-based palliative care, extending assistance to over 2017 patients and their families. Our commitment to this noble endeavour remains steadfast. However, we are currently facing financial limitations as the demand for our services continues to grow.

We earnestly appeal to you to consider contributing to ARIKE, becoming an integral part of our mission to create a lasting impact on the lives of individuals requiring palliative care.
