From Isolation to Inclusion: Z's Dream Takes Flight

Sixteen-year-old Z dreamt of classrooms filled with friends, not the walls of his home. Polio stole his ability to walk, confining him to a wheelchair. Crawling within the house caused painful wounds, a constant reminder of his limitations.

For over a year, Arike's home care brought palliative care support to Z. As part of the government's inclusive education programme, a dedicated teacher visited Z at home, keeping him connected to academics. But a fire burned within him – a longing to join the world outside.

He often found himself alone at home, waiting eagerly for his teacher or the Arike home care nurse to arrive. Z's family, despite their love, struggled financially. His father and mother toiled at low-paying jobs, barely making ends meet. Plastic surgery offered a chance to heal, a chance to improve his mobility. Yet, the cost seemed insurmountable, and Z's family was hesitant. The fear of complications from the surgery loomed large.

The Arike team became a pillar of support during this challenging time. We understood Z's yearning for a life beyond confinement and the family's anxieties. Through numerous visits and counselling sessions, the team patiently addressed their concerns and helped Z see the possibilities that awaited him.

With renewed hope, Arike facilitated family orientation sessions, connections to specialised facilities, and fundraising efforts. Inner Wheel Kalamassery, EDRAAC, and kindhearted individuals joined hands to make the surgery a reality.

Z's story isn't just about a surgery, it's about hope taking flight. Today, with continued home care and psycho-social support, Z is recovering well and ready to take an exciting step – joining a regular school in the upcoming academic year as a 10th-standard student! This is just one example. We at Arike believe that many more like Z deserve a chance to spread their wings. With your continued support, we can help them soar. Become a well-wisher. Donate. Volunteer. Together, let's create a world where dreams have wheels, not walls.

Just a Fan, Means a Lot! Stories of Support from Arike

During our regular home visits, our dedicated team of nurses, doctors, and social workers identify patients' needs that go beyond medical care. Often, simple items can significantly improve a patient's comfort.

Recently, thanks to a kind-hearted donor, we were able to provide an electric fan to a patient receiving palliative care at home. While we typically don't highlight such individual cases in our newsletters, the impact of this simple gift felt worth mentioning. Imagine enduring the intense Kochi summer heat while bedridden. A simple fan can make a world of difference in a patient's experience.

Every day, Arike supports numerous patients with medical equipment like walkers, wheelchairs, and even basic necessities like adult diapers and air beds. These resources are crucial for patient comfort and dignity. But thanks to the generosity of individuals like you, we continue to provide essential support to patients every day.

Vishu at Arike

Vishu, the vibrant festival of Kerala, is a time for renewal and prosperity. At Arike, we always aim to bring moments of joy to our patients. This Vishu, our team visited a few patients' homes, bearing traditional Vishu Kaineettam. Witnessing the smiles on the faces of our patients as they received these tokens of love was truly heartwarming.

Community Sensitization Programme

On April 19th, 2024, the Arike team conducted a sensitization programme for ASHAs (Accredited Social Health Activists) and resident association members at the Urban Primary Health Centre in Thammanam. This programme provided valuable information about palliative care, empowering these significant community members to better support those in need.

If you're interested in learning more about palliative care or hosting a sensitization programme in your community, please don't hesitate to contact us.

Koode: A Community of Compassion in Action

On April 20th, Koode volunteers gathered for a review meeting at Arike. At this gathering, volunteers had the chance to reflect on their experiences, share insights, and discuss strategies to enhance their support for individuals requiring palliative care in the community. The meeting facilitated the exchange of ideas among volunteers, allowing them to address challenges and collaborate on initiatives to improve the care provided to patients and their families. Furthermore, it offered volunteers the valuable opportunity to receive guidance and feedback from seasoned professionals, fostering an environment of ongoing learning and growth within the palliative care community.

Extend a helping hand by donating towards food kits and School kits

As the new academic year commences, the air fills with the joyous sounds of children returning to their classrooms. This season of new beginnings is celebrated by families and schools alike. However, not all households share this festive spirit. For some children, whose lives are shadowed by the palliative care needs of a bedridden parent or sibling, the start of school can be a stark reminder of the challenges they face. With the aim of reducing these hardships, Arike plans to distribute food and school kits to the homes of palliative care patients facing financial distress.

A food kit, priced modestly at ₹1000, provides essential sustenance, while a school kit, costing ₹1600, equips a child with the necessary items to pursue their academic dreams. We invite you to join us in this noble endeavour. Your contribution can light up a child's world, transforming their period of uncertainty into one of possibility and hope.
