

Meals That Heal

At Arike, our work extends far beyond medical care. It reaches into the hearts of families, into the everyday struggles they quietly endure, and into moments that reveal the profound dignity of simple needs.

Recently, during a bereavement support visit, one of our social workers visited the home of a patient we had cared for over a long period. While we were consoling the patient's mother and discussing her social support system, a deeply touching moment occurred when the mother gently smelled the social worker's hand and, with a wistful smile, remarked, "You had biriyani, right? It's been a very long time since we had biriyani."

It was a simple remark, but it spoke volumes. It revealed the quiet sacrifices families make when caring for a bedridden loved one, where even a small joy like a special meal becomes a distant memory. Understanding the situation immediately, the social worker went out, bought a packet of biriyani, and returned to give it to her. It was a small act, but her face lit up with a joy that words could hardly capture.

This moment opened our eyes even further to the financial constraints families face when caregiving responsibilities take over. It also reaffirmed why holistic support—going beyond medicine—is central to Arike's mission. Recognizing their need, we have now included this family in our food kit support scheme, ensuring they receive regular assistance. When we delivered the food kit last time, we also made sure to include a packet of biryani rice, honoring her simple wish and reminding her that she is not forgotten.

At Arike, these are not isolated stories. There are hundreds of families like hers, quietly enduring hardship, cherishing small kindnesses. Every donation to Arike—no matter how big or small—helps us extend care that heals not just bodies, but hearts and homes. It brings hope to dinner tables, smiles to tired faces, and dignity to those who need it most.

We invite you to join us in making these ripples of compassion stronger. Your support helps us nourish lives, not just with medicines, but with love, respect, and the small joys that make life beautiful even in difficult times. Thank you for standing with Arike.

Extend a helping hand by donating towards food kits and School kits

As the new academic year commences, the air fills with the joyous sounds of children returning to their classrooms. This season of new beginnings is celebrated by families and schools alike. However, not all households share this festive spirit. For some children, whose lives are shadowed by the palliative care needs of a bedridden parent or sibling, the start of school can be a stark reminder of the challenges they face. With the aim of reducing these hardships, Arike plans to distribute food and school kits to the homes of palliative care patients facing financial distress.

A food kit, priced modestly at ₹2000, provides essential sustenance, while a school kit, costing ₹2000, equips a child with the necessary items to pursue their academic dreams. We invite you to join us in this noble endeavor. Your contribution can light up a child's world, transforming their period of uncertainty into one of possibility and hope.
